Summary of offer:	Revolutionary solution for removal solids from waste water stream before sludge
Description of offer:	ACT is interested in joint ventures with companies/organizations which purchase for municipalities in your country. ACT's revolutionary solution addresses a need that is being stressed as a national priority in many countries today: Mounting quantities of sewage sludge formed each day at WWTPs worldwide, a costly environmental nuisance. ACT's technology reduces the accumulation of sludge, while recycling it into a useful commodity. ACT's solution for removal of solids from the wastewater stream before sludge is formed reduces chemical and electricity consumption; increases plant treatment capacity; and reduces health hazards caused by soil, water and agricultural contamination.

	The company offers the following solutions: The SRS™ The traditional method for treating wastewater worldwide is based mainly on biological purification: Raw sewage enters the biological stage, where bacteria purify the water by biological digestion. In large wastewater treatment plants this follows a sedimentation stage. This process requires high electricity consumption for aeration, and produces excessive amounts of sludge daily, a negative by-product. The SRS™ changes the existing process, from sewage treatment to Sewage Mining: The SRS™ extracts bio-solids from wastewater, before they ever become sludge. Initial sludge formation is reduced by up to 50%, before applying any chemical or biological treatment. Applied CleanTech's patented technology transforms solids in wastewater into a recycled commodity: Recyllose™. Trapping the cellulose component inherent in wastewater, and returning it to the industrial cycle as raw material, the SRS™ evolves sewage treatment into sewage mining – introducing a model for sustainable, efficient and environmentally-friendly wastewater management. Recyllose™ Recyllose is a recoverable, valuable resource used as an alternative fuel, as a cellulose-based resource for the pulp & paper industry, as a filler for the bio-plastic and construction industries, and more. Produced automatically from the wastewater stream by the SRS™, converted and packed on location, Recyllose™ is a biologically clean, pasteurized commodity. In accordance with customers' needs, Recyllose™ may be supplied in the form of pellets, grind or fluff, and additional post-production treatment as required is optional.

Year of Establishment:	1938
Summary of offer	Export of High Quality Pickled Vegetables
Description of Offer:	Kvuzat Yavne Food Products is a leading Israeli producer of pickled products that excel in their taste and quality. Some of the ingredients grow in the kibbutz and some are brought from plantations throughout the whole country. The plant produces annually thousands of tons of a wide variety of cucumbers, olives and pickled vegetables. The products are available in retail and commercial packaging. The plant has maintained its position as a leading company in the market, thanks to a strategic decision made by the management to maintain a high quality of the products. In order to achieve this, the factory has been equipped with the best automated equipment available. The plant was expanded and modernized. Consequently during the past 15 years, there has been a dramatic increase in sales and a continued growth in the market share held by the company. In addition we continue to develop and enrich our varied products by the use of original, genuine and natural additives, and concentrates, which are used to enhance the flavor. Kvuzat Yavne Food Products has official proof of the high quality of its products. The plant passed two official tests with flying colors, being the first Israeli food industry that passed the international quality tests ISO 9002 for 2002, as well as the GMP (good manufacturing practices) tests of the Health Ministry and BRC. Their standards of hygiene are high, and meet the rigid requirements of the health authorities around the world. All products are Kosher approved. Kvuzat Yavne's pickled products are sold in the USA, Canada, throughout all of Europe, South America, Australia and New Zealand. In Israel they are distributed in all the large food chains.
